Conciliator called in to resolve ambulance impasse

Haliburton County ambulance employees and Minden township will try and resolve the deadlocked contract negotiations when they meet with a conciliator on Oct. 3.

Talks between the two parties broke down last month when the township walked away from the negotiating table after the two sides were unable to strike a deal.

The employees, who are members of the Ontario Public Service Employees Union (OPSEU), have been without a contract since they first joined the union in June 1989.

Terry Krulicki, an OPSEU spokesman involved in the local contract talks, told The Times that the employees and the township still have seven outstanding issues to resolve.

No further talks have been scheduled until the two sides meet with the provincial conciliator and Krulicki says the union and township are still "far apart" in their respective positions.

Although he would not discuss specifics of the negotiations, Krulicki said monetary issues, including wages, are among the areas that have yet to be resolved.

Krulicki said the union is also going to challenge the township's status as employers of the county ambulance service by arguing that it's the Ministry of Health, not the municipality, which is in charge of the service.

"Our position is that all Anson, Hindon and Minden is, is the administrator of the service. They are under no financial burden, all money and direction comes from the ministry," he said.

Because the township only acts as a middleman between the province and the ambulance service, Krulicki says the

All the students from both campuses of Archie Stouffer Elementary School marched through downtown Minden Friday afternoon to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the school. The students sang and cheered as they marched with their banners from the south end of the street back towards the school. Several special activities were scheduled for this past Saturday, including a reunion, in celebration of 50th anniversary of the setting of the cornerstone.

Ride sets sights on return to Minden

Organizers of the Ride for Sight say they will approach Minden council in October to see if the annual event will be welcome here next year.

In a telephone interview on Friday, committee chairman Syd Collier said organizers are considering their options but there is a consensus among participants that Minden is a good location for the two-day event.

"Most riders want to go back to the Minden area," said Collier.

Minden played host to the Ride for Sight for five years but after the 1989 event, the organizers announced they were moving to Peterborough's Trent University for 1990.

Collier says the Ride had an "excellent year" in Peterborough but was faced with space problems. The University was still housing classes and activities the weekend of the Ride for Sight. "It was a squeeze situation," he said. "There was no room."

Trent has agreed to allow the Ride to return but only if participation is limited to 5,000 people. In an effort to ensure the Ride's return, Collier says the City of Peterborough has offered the use of two city parks to accommodate the riders that can't fit onto the university.

However, Collier says splitting the event into more than one location would present a lot of difficulties. "How can you stand at the gate and tell some guy who's raised $2,500 that he has to go to a park?"

In addition most riders were not happy with the camping environment in Peterborough.

"The biggest percentage didn't appreciate Peterborough," he said. "The university has manicured grounds. These workers should be employees of the Crown, not of the municipality.

"We're negotiating with ghosts at the bargaining table," he said.

OPSEU has taken two similar challenges to the Labour Tribunal and won in both cases, successfully having the ambulance staffs become employees of the province.

After the union won the second case, in Owen Sound, the province decided not to challenge the issue and agreed that all ambulance employees represented by OPSEU in the province could be Crown employees, except for Minden and Wasaga Beach.

Krulicki says he doesn't know why the province left those two municipalities out of the decision but says he doesn't think they are any different than the other ambulance services the union represents.

The union's case will be heard by the Labour Tribunal in November and, if successful, Haliburton County's ambulance staff will become provincial employees with Minden township acting as agents of the Crown in administering the service.

Minden Reeve Ray Moore said the municipality is still not clear what its relationship with the ambulance service is and whether they should be employers or agents of the Crown.

But Moore said the outcome of the Oct. 3 conciliation is going to have an effect on the whole county. Although the ambulance wages are paid by the Ministry of Health, Moore says if the union is awarded the $16/hour they're asking for, it will affect the raises that other municipal employees ask for.

It's unrealistic for the employees to ask to be paid the same as ambulance attendants in Toronto, says Moore, because the cost of living is lower in Haliburton County.

Just prior to the talks breaking down, Moore said he thought the township and the union has reached an agreement that would make everyone happy.

Moore is also concerned that, in the future, the province may require municipalities to pay a share of the cost of operating ambulance services, much the same as the cost of welfare payments are shared now.

HEARD ANY GOOD BOOKS LATELY? Minden Rotary Secretary Gil Scott, left, presents County Librarian Joel Levis with a set of 30 talking books. The Rotary donated tapes will remain at the Minden branch but will be available to anyone who wishes to check them out. The titles include mysteries, romances, adventures and westerns and will augment the 500 talking books already in the system.

Reeve dismayed by Chamber decision

Minden Reeve Ray Moore is "dismayed" with decision of the Chamber of Commerce to give up the Ministry of Transportation licencing service.

At Wednesday's County Council meeting, Moore wondered why the chamber made this decision, noting that the Chamber used to make a profit with this service.

Moore, who was a Chamber director until last October said there appears to be a problem at the office. "Since October there's been a terrible breakdown. The people don't seem to be able to handle things."

Moore's comments came after Stanhope Deputy Reeve Ann Barker's explanation of the decision. Barker, who is both an elected Chamber Director and the county's liaison, said the licence bureau had operated at a loss for the past year.

Barker told council that the Chamber took in about $14,000 through the licence bureau last year while expenses amounted to about $16,000. "No business in the county is going to run at a deficit," she said.

Barker also said the ministry had advised that it was about to pull the service out of the Chamber office because of problems experienced over the past year. She said there was a problem when the entire staff quit after the last Chamber election. Further problems resulted when one of the new staff members took time off for illness. And finally, a recent break-in at the office again interrupted service.

After the third incident, the ministry indicated that the service should be moved, said Barker.

Moore wondered why the county, which contributes about $7,000 annually to the Chamber, had not been notified of the decision. He said the county should have been brought in on this decision.

Barker said a letter was sent to Warden Don Short-reed. However, the Warden said he only received the letter that day. The letter was dated Sept. 14.

Housing the licencing bureau at the Chamber office poses problems for the staff, which interfere with the Chamber's main function, Barker added. She said the Chamber Manager has to be on hand whenever the person who normally deals with licensing is away. On at least one occasion, the manager has had to miss a travel trade show to fill in at the licencing bureau.

JUST ANOTHER BIG SNAKE

Foxy snake fools biologists

It was a big snake. Other than that, the information about last week's rare discovery in Gelert was not quite right.

As it turns out, the near-record Fox snake found on County Road 1 was actually an average-sized Gopher snake. The reptile was a pet of a local resident that slithered out onto the road to be run over by a passing car.

Tim Haxton, a biologist with the Ministry of Natural Resources, says a closer examination of the 171 centimetre snake revealed its true identity.

Haxton says it is easy to confuse the two types of snakes, since they are very similar in appearance. A Gopher snake, however, is not as rare a find as a Fox snake, he said.

Haxton said the pet snake was lost by its owner, who identified it as his own after reading the story in last week's paper. The snake was imported from Alberta.

RIDE ROARS BACK TO MINDEN

MEMORIES OF '89 OR VISIONS OF '91?

With the possibility of Ride for Sight's return to Minden, scenes like this one from the 1989 event could once again become a reality. Ride organizer Syd Collier said the committee could make its pitch to the township soon.

Reeve throws his support behind Ride bid

Minden's reeve says he will support any move to bring the Ride for Sight back to town.

"Financially the Ride has been a good thing in June," said Ray Moore. "I can't speak for council, but personally I would support bringing it back."

Moore has discussed that possibility with Chamber of Commerce president Lyn Stevens, but hasn't yet been contacted by the Ride for Sight organizers.

If the Ride committee expresses a desire to return to Minden, Moore says he hopes council's decision is made in an open forum that allows for public input and discussion.

Before any decision can be made, Moore says the benefits and the drawbacks of the event have to be weighed. "We have to look at what it really does for the township."

The weekend event makes money for local hotels and lodges, restaurants and stores at a time of the year when business is usually slow, said Moore.

He said it was "miraculous" that he received only two complaints from residents about the 1989 event, given the number of riders who participated.

Stevens says she's been in contact with Collier in an effort to find the Ride a home in Haliburton County. She's suggested that the committee contact Minden council about the possibility of returning to the fairgrounds, which she says is an ideal location for the event.

If Minden proves to be unsuitable, Stevens says she wants to try and find an alternate location in the county to host the Ride.

"We need the boost in June," she said. "With the economic times we have to pursue all different things. The Riders spend a lot of money, and the problems are very minor."

Public must first be ready to accept the return of Ride, say organizers

'These are the people who pay the taxes, and these are the people who call the shots' guys like to camp they would rather be in a field than on a lawn."

With the ride looking for a new location, attention is being focused back to Haliburton County.

Ride representatives recently met with Dysart council to discuss the possibility of holding the event in Glebe Park but council decided the ride would be an unsuitable event for the area.

At reviewing the location, Collier says he sympathizes with people who live near the park and opposed the idea of the ride.

"If I had 6,000 motorcycles running past my door, I'd be complaining too," he said.

One of the reasons the ride was moved from Minden was because repairs to the Minden arena left the availability of the facilities in doubt. With repairs to the arena currently underway, he says the arena will probably be available next June.

The ride organizing committee held their first meeting of the year on Sunday, and Collier said they would be setting their agenda and discussing their options.

The committee will probably try and arrange a meeting with Minden council on October 11.

"If we go back, the only way to do it is to apply to council and see how they feel," he said. And before any move is made to bring the Ride back to Minden, Collier says it must have the support of residents in the community.

"These are the people who pay the taxes, and these are the people who call the shots," he said. "These are the people we have to satisfy."

'Moosonee's a good spot'

Despite the economic benefits Ride for Sight holds, few Haliburton County politicians are willing to accept the event into their communities.

"It's a fine thing, but not in my back yard," Stanhope Reeve Harry Davis concluded during a county council meeting last Wednesday.

"Moosonee's a good spot for something like that," he added.

The issue was brought to the county table by Stanhope Deputy Reeve Ann Barker. She expressed some surprise at the recent decision of Dysart Council to not accept the huge charity event to be held at Haliburton's Glebe Park.

The Ride for Sight was held in Minden for five consecutive years before moving to Peterborough last summer. Now, organizers are hoping to bring the Ride back to this county. Two weeks ago, they made a pitch to Dysart Council and in October they hope to meet with Minden Council.

The Ride "brings tourism dollars into the community," said Barker. "We must think of the businesses... we have to take some inconvenience."

Barker, who is the county's liaison with the Chamber of Commerce, said she has learned that Minden has sent an invitation to the organizers. However, Minden's Reeve and Deputy Reeve were surprised at that suggestion.

"I understood it was going to Stanhope Township," Minden Reeve Ray Moore countered. He said he has been contacted by the Chamber of Commerce, which wants the event brought back to the county. However, Moore said he has not had the opportunity to discuss the matter with the rest of his council.

Moore said council made a difficult decision last November when it unanimously endorsed the return of the event. However, Ride organizers then "walked to Peterborough after we made the commitment."

Deputy Reeve Bern Berry said Ride organizers have not yet expressed an interest in returning to Minden. If they do, he said council will listen to their pitch.

Personally, Berry said he is not sure whether or not he wants it.

The fact that Dysart's rejection of the Ride was brought up at County Council generated some harsh comments from Dysart Reeve Bill Davis. "I'm astounded that I would be chastised for Dysart's decision," said Davis. "I don't think County Council is the place for people to chastise others on matters that don't concern County Council."

Davis then suggested that Barker ask her council to host the event.

That's the first thing I did," Barker replied. However, when asked why Stanhope isn't courting the event, Barker gestured to Harry Davis and said: "Ask my Reeve"

Responsibilities

Now that the reality of their victory has sunk in, members of Ontario's New Democratic Party are probably eagerly awaiting their chance to govern Canada's most prosperous province.

For the first time the party will be able to draw up its own legislative agenda and visions of creative new initiatives are probably swimming in the minds of prospective Cabinet ministers.

But before Bob Rae and his team boldly go where no Ontario New Democrats have gone before, they should take a moment to take stock of the unfinished business left behind by the Liberals.

And for Dennis Drainville, Victoria-Haliburton's representative in the new government, there are plenty of loose ends that need to be addressed.

First and foremost is the steering committee studying Haliburton County's health, housing and social service needs.

The NDP victory carried with it a promise to build Haliburton's promised long-term care facility and this will take a lot of the public pressure off the committee. But just because the NDP promised to provide the facility doesn't mean the committee should be shuffled aside and discounted as merely a Liberal stalling tactic.

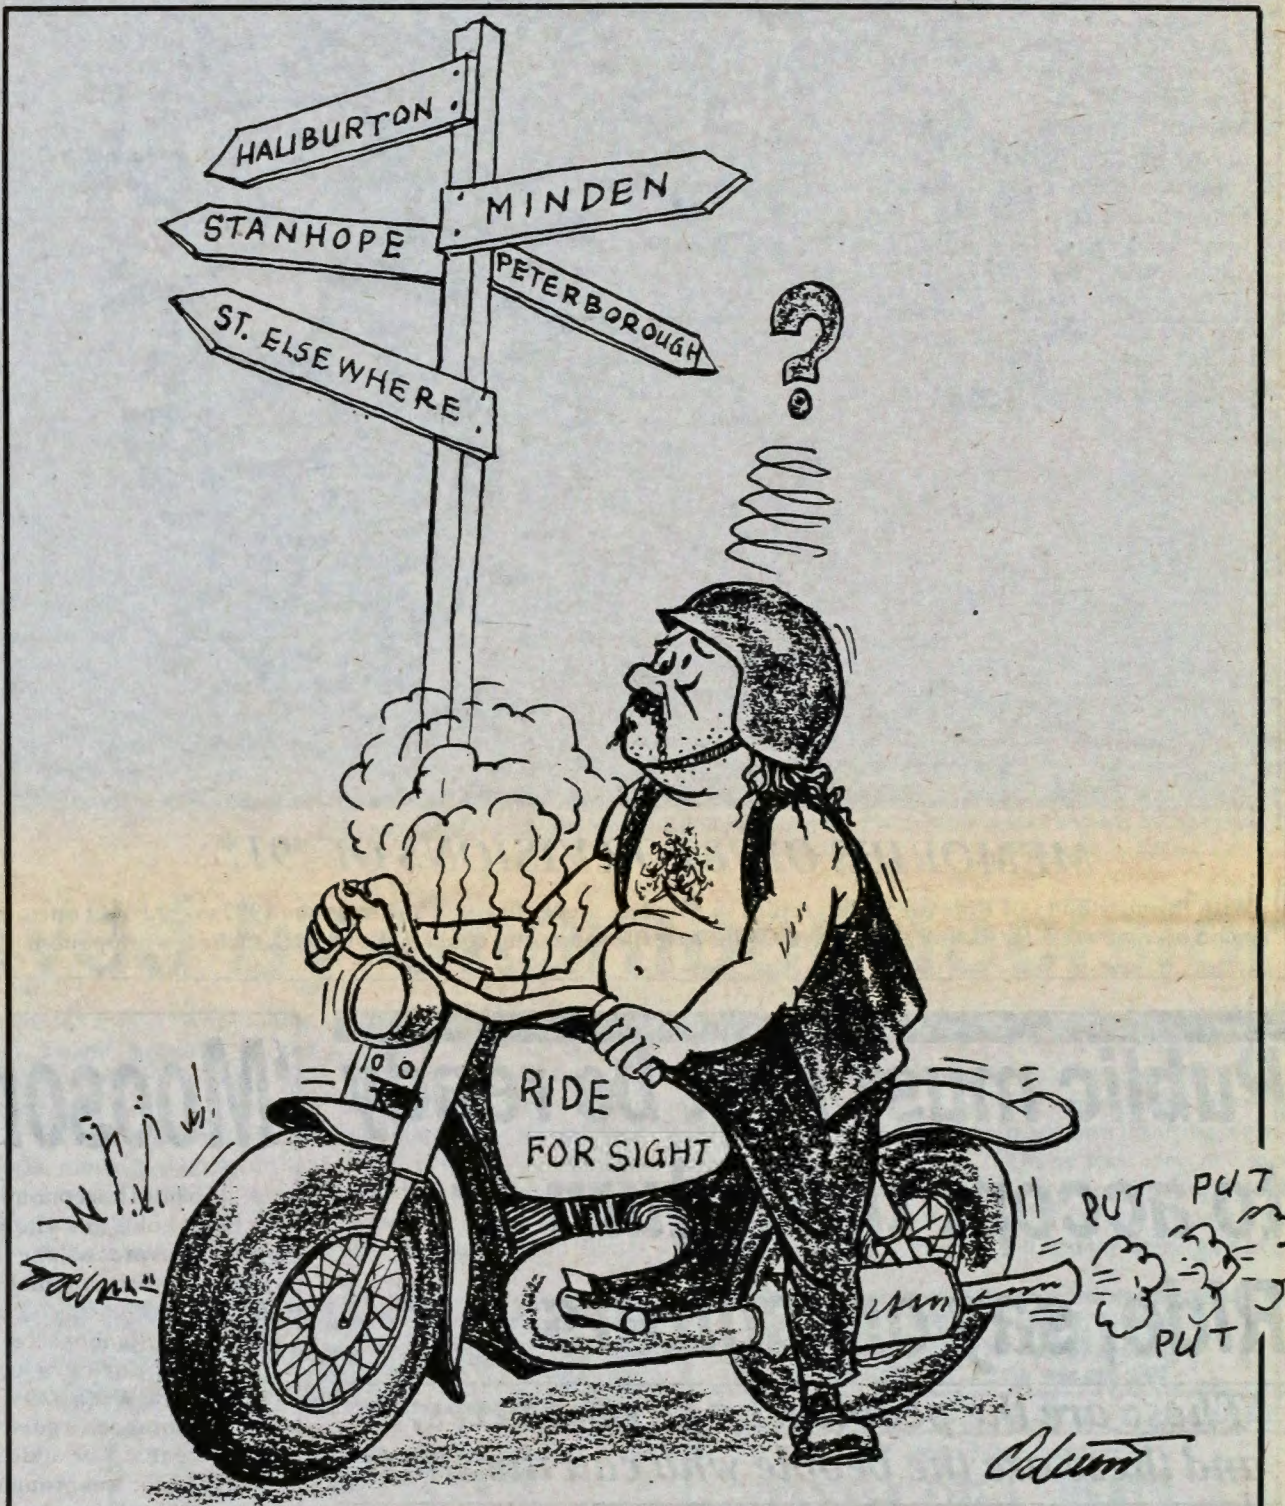

Committee members have spent nine long months taking a hard look at the needs of the county and ignoring their recommendations could cost Haliburton dearly over the next 20 years.

Drainville should meet with the Chamber of Commerce and become acquainted with their proposal to form a Rural Tourism Development Foundation. Chamber members should not be forced back to square one after presenting the plan to Liberal tourism minister Ken Black just because his government fell out of favour with voters.

Our new MPP should waste no time in bringing the matter to the attention of the NDP's minister of tourism, whoever that may be.

He should also address the pressing needs of Haliburton's school system. The Board of Education worked too hard to present their case to Sean Conway to have to wait another three years to catch the attention of the new government.

A new government does not mean a clean slate. If the NDP want to prove their integrity they should be willing to set aside party bias and accept the responsibilities inherited from the previous government.

That's no Blissful way to die

On September the 13th, 1899, real estate agent Henry H. Bliss stepped off a street car at Central Park West and 74th street, inhaled a deep double lungful of crisp New York air, and started to cross the street.

He was immediately run over and killed by a horseless carriage.

It's very small consolation for Mister Bliss, but his final involuntary act at least got him into the history books. He is North America's number one traffic fatality. Officially, the first person to expire at the hands (make that bumpers) of an automobile.

He's had lots of imitators since.

than two million — two million — North Americans have died in or under cars since Henry Bliss met his fate. And more than six million have been severely injured for life.

That's not a 'family convenience' — that's an unnatural disaster. Indeed, if some demented Middle East tin pot maniac ever did to us what the automobile has done to us, we'd be well into World War III by now.

If there was any justice, the U.S. Sixth Fleet would now be anchored off Detroit, not Saudi Arabia.

Speaking of which, it's hard to find much good to say about the Kuwait Kafuffle, but I did spy one cheering note on my TV screen last week. It showed a bunch of folks in Minneapolis demonstrating against U.S. involvement. One of them carried a placard that read "OIL, SCHMOIL — RIDE YOUR BIKE".

Well, yes. If more of us took to our two-wheelers it would be worse for Saddam and better for us. Bikes don't guzzle gas, pollute the air or suckle on government-subsidized oil prices. It's also hard to

There should be no question on Ride's future

Editor:

To invite or not to invite: There shouldn't even be a question. The "Ride For Sight" should be invited back to Minden. Before everyone gets in an uproar over this idea, think about it.

Look at the empty stores in town. Some have moved to the Highway, some have just closed. Businesses not only pay commercial property taxes, but they also pay business taxes, if they can stay in business.

The White Water Championship was not held this year, for good reason, but businesses lost money.

Yes, such a venture as "Ride For Sight" has drawbacks, but your weekend visitors bring problems. Even local residents are not angels.

Weigh the pros and cons. These motorcyclists ride to help others. Most are like you and me. They bring money to the area, they help put Minden on the map for other tourists. It is for just one weekend of the year.

They drink. So do most people. They party. So do most people. They have damaged some private property. So do other people. This last problem should be addressed to minimize the concerns.

To me the positive surely outweighs the negative.

I hope people can find it in themselves to convince council to swallow some pride, apologize and ask the Ride For Sight people back.

Not only do we need them and they need a place, but the Retinitis Pigmentosa Foundation needs the money.

Council listens

The following is a letter to Minden Reeve Ray Moore from resident Gord Samells.

Mr. Reeve:

Please convey to your council my appreciation for their time and consideration in the matter of rezoning on Lot 5 Con. A in Minden.

You stood up like men, and, whether you voted for or against, you publicly stated your case; I'm sure it was not an easy decision.

You have sent a message to the skeptics and your critics, including myself, that the council does listen: at least "sometimes" they listen.

You have demonstrated to those who have encouraged Dave, Bob and me and that took time out to show up at the meeting on Thursday night, that the democratic process is still alive and well!

I'm sure the war is not over, but we have won the first little battle, you have given hope to the silent majority that it may be worth the effort to, at times, stand up, speak your piece and be counted.

Yours truly,
Gord Samells

Cyclists plough through it all imagine a five o'clock bicycle traffic jam or a two-Schwinn head-on, multiple-fatality bike crash.

Bikes don't kill people the way cars do.

Sure, you say, but this is Canada, dummy. You can't ride bikes in this country in the winter. Well, I've spent time in downtown Toronto for the past five winters and every day I've seen bike couriers flashing back and forth, on fair days and foul. Last January during one of Toronto's 'blizzards' (three inches of snow), the whole municipality of Mammon slithered to a halt, cars up on the sidewalks, trucks spinning their tires. Nothing moved — except the bike couriers. They were wearing motorcycle gloves and earmuffs and a Plimsoll Line of dirty grey slush up past their waists, but they were moving.

And needless to say, no matter how frosty the winter morning, there's no problem getting a bike to 'turn over'.

As a matter of fact, bicycles are getting more and more sensible. We've been through the silly phase of ten speeds. That's where we all bought machines with tires the width of spaghetti noodles, racing handlebars and ultra light, ultra-expensive space-age alloy construction — terrific for athletes like Steve Bauer, trying to shave milliseconds off his time on the Tour de France. Pretty silly for a stenographer trying to negotiate potholes and sewer grilles on her way to work. After that came the mountain bikes — with 86 forward gears, nubby tires that belonged on army assault vehicles and an even more expensive space-age alloy construction so durable you could throw the bike off the top of the mountain once you'd ridden up the side of it.

Today, it's possible to buy a normal, modestly-gear, modestly-priced bicycle that won't win marathons or scale the Himalayas but will get you from A to B quickly and comfortably.

Me? I'm beyond that. On the cutting edge of new bike technology, actually. I ride a one-speed, CCM balloon-tired machine of ancient vintage. It's a classic. The kind of bike our grandparents threw their legs over.

The kind Henry Bliss should have been riding on September 13, 1899.

Trading moguls for breakers

Puddle-jumping pair do their best to avoid sinking feeling

Each year, when winter gives way to spring and the snow disappears from the trails, most snowmobilers begin putting away their machines for a summer in storage.

For two Fenelon Falls brothers however, the warmer weather signals the start of another year of competitive snowmobile racing.

Stuart and Steven Charity have just completed their second year participating in watercross, an unusual sport that involves racing modified snowmobiles on open water.

"It's a thrilling experience," says 23-year-old Stuart. "It's all open water and you know if you slow down, you sink."

The sport first evolved as a winter activity, when snowmobilers cut troughs in the ice and tested their courage by seeing how far they could navigate the machines across the open water.

It was local resident Paul Prentice, of Prentice-Berry Ltd., that first introduced the Charity brothers to watercross.

"He cut a slot 250 feet long in the ice, and I only went 100 feet," says Stuart. Although he became hooked on the sport, Stuart's icy introduction to watercross convinced him to wait for the lakes to thaw before he tried it again.

"That's when I realized this isn't something I want to do in the winter," he says.

Steve and Stuart bought a watercross-rigged snowmobile from Prentice and overhauled it by equipping it with a bigger, more powerful engine.

The governing body for the sport is the International Watercross Association which holds three races throughout the summer.

Each race is divided into two events, a drag race and an oval race. The drag race involves three machines racing down a 650 foot course to the finish line. Racers compete in a round robin to determine the overall winner.

In the oval race, competitors take two timed laps around an oval shape track, racing against the clock to post the best time.

And after just two years on the circuit, the Charity team has become a force to be reckoned with.

Nicknamed 'The New Kids on the Block' by the other racers, the brothers have risen to the forefront of their respective classes, beating veteran racers who have been competing for more than 10 years.

Steve Charity, left, and his brother Stuart proudly display some of the trophies they won during this year's watercross season. The sport involves racing modified snowmobiles over open water and although the brothers have only been competing for two years, they are already beating racers with 10 years of experience. Local resident Paul Prentice introduced the Charity's to the sport.

This year Steve tied for first place in his class overall and posted first, second and third place finishes in the three drag competitions. Of the 100 to 170 competitors that attend each race, both brothers spend most of their time finishing in the top 10.

Steve and Stuart race in different classes and only compete against each other in the oval race. "He won't race me in the drags yet," jokes Steve.

The key to their success in the sport is the time and effort they spend preparing their machines for each race.

Dawn Charity, Steve and Stuart's mother, says she rarely sees her sons on weekends or before 10 p.m. during the months of May and April because they are always in the garage working on the snowmobiles, preparing for the upcoming season.

Their attention to the mechanical details paid off, as neither brother had a machine break down during the season.

"We spend more hours working on our machines than most people spend snowmobiling during the winter," says Steve. And all these hours of labour-intensive preparation are tested in just under three minutes of actual racing at each of the three events.

And although it's Steve and Stuart who do the actual racing, Dawn and the boy's father Gord both play important roles in the Charity watercross racing team.

"I'm the PR man, banker and photographer," says Dawn. "They don't leave for an event without me."

The brothers, with the help Gord, do all their own repairs using parts supplied by Prentice-Berry, the company that sponsors the pair.

Both Steve and Stuart acknowledge the important role played by Prentice-Berry in making their racing effort a success.

And the Charity's involvement in watercross goes well beyond the race course. Last weekend they participated in a demonstration of the sport in Eganville, Ont. in an effort to try and get a race organized there for next summer's season.

The three races that currently make up the IWA circuit are held in Grantsburg,

(more on page 7)

Wisconsin, Milton, Ont., and Atikokan, Ont. The distance they have to travel to compete is one of the drawbacks of competing in the sport.

As the sport grows in popularity, the brothers would like to see more races organized a little closer to home. As it is now, the races can draw up to 10,000 spectators a weekend.

The brothers have also been invited, by Mark Lester of Snowmobiler magazine, to set up a display at the Markham snowmobile show that will include their machines and a video of them racing.

Although in ideal conditions a snowmobile can run across open water until it runs out of fuel, conditions at the races are sometimes less than ideal and occasionally a machine does go down.

Stuart says the most common reasons for a machine to sink is if it breaks down mid-run or if "you hit waves too big to climb over."

Although sending a snowmobile to the bottom of a lake or river might sound like the end of a racer's day, Stuart says once the sled is pulled from the water the owner can get it dried out and running again in 15 minutes.

In one day on the Ottawa river, Stuart lost his snowmobile to the waves on four separate occasions.

Each machine is equipped with a boat cushion attached by a length of rope. When the snowmobile sinks, the boat cushions floats to the surface marking the location until a pontoon boat equipped with a winch can retrieve it.

But quite apart from what the lake can do to the snowmobile is the concern of what effect sinking a snowmobile has to the quality of the lake water.

Steve Charity shows off his winning style as he cruises to a first place finish in the drag race held in Atikokan, Ont. this summer. Steve tied for first place overall.

According to Stuart, the answer is - very little. The machines are designed so the gas and oil don't escape into the water if the sled goes down. Once the machine is retrieved, the one-gallon gas tank is drained and the old fuel is placed in barrels for proper disposal.

"More oil and gas go into the water from an outboard motor than from these snowmobiles," says Gord.

The Charity family involvement is not unusual for watercross. Gord says lots of wives and mothers and fathers attend the races to lend their support.

And the racers themselves have formed a tight-knit community that gives the events a real family atmosphere. Although competitive on the water the racers often lend each other a hand in getting machines ready for the next race.

Stuart says the more experienced racers have been extremely helpful in teaching the brothers some of the finer points of watercross.

At one event his machine broke down during a race, but with some help from other racers and a borrowed part, he was able to get his sled back in working order for the next heat. "And it only cost me two beers," he said.

Despite the party atmosphere of the events, the racers are very serious when it comes to safety. Each driver has to wear protective equipment including a helmet and life vest, and racers are forbidden from drinking alcohol prior to racing.

Race officials conduct inspections of the machines before the race to ensure that all safety requirements are being met.

Because of these precautions, there has yet to be any injuries at any of the races.

For the brothers the attraction of the sport comes from the thrill of reaching speeds up to 70 m.p.h across the water.

Dawn says another aspect of the sport that makes it so enjoyable is its uniqueness. "It's something no one else does," she said. "Snowmobiles are meant for snow, not water."

Even though two of the races are held in Ontario, Steve and Stuart are among only seven Canadians that participate in the sport, a number they would like to see increase.

Gord says the sport offers a sense of satisfaction when the brothers are so successful on machines they built and maintain themselves.

For now the brothers are getting ready to put their machines away for the winter and are looking forward to getting out their other snowmobiles for more conventional, winter use.

But next year you can bet The New Kids on the Block will be eager to trade their winter coats for life vests and moguls for waves as they prepare for another season of watercross.

Junior kickers accept second loss

The HHSS Redmen Junior soccer team continued to struggle Wednesday in a match with I.E. Weldon.

The Junior Redmen fell 4-0 at the hands of this strong squad in spite of some strong play of their own.

Coach Walter Tose said the Redmen put in a good game in the midfield but had trouble finishing off. He said they will have to learn to work the ball to the corners rather than taking a direct approach to the net.

This was the second game of the season for Redmen. In their opening game with Fenelon Falls, they lost 4-2, with goals coming from Darren Parsons and Mike Morrison.

The Redmen take on LCVI this Wednesday in Haliburton. The game begins at 2:30 p.m.

Senior quarterback Shawn Perrin barks out the signals as he prepares his team for a charge down the field against I.E. Weldon Secondary School. The seniors lost a close 17-16 decision Friday afternoon in the season opener on home turf. The junior team dominated their rivals with a 38-0 victory.

Nichol, Salvatori ahead of the pack in Times Open golf tournament

Hugh Nichol and Linda Salvatori led the pack in the tenth annual edition of The Times Autumn Open Golf Tournament. The field of 57 golfers took to the links at Haliburton Highlands Golf Course, September 16 under clear and sunny skies.

Nichol was the top golfer among the men with a low gross score of 68. Linda Salvatori carded a 103 to lead the slim field of ladies who participated this year.

The men's low net title went to Drew Carey while Clara Vuksic was the women's low net winner.

In the men's division, the second low gross went to Ron Pasquino who carded a 76, followed by Bob Nichol, also with a 76, Robert Young at 78 and Tom Curry with a 79.

The closest to the whole contest, played on the towering eighth hole, was won by George Carlton.

The golfers competed in an 18-hole tournament on the Highlands course and enjoyed a banquet following the competition at Silver Birches Lodge.

Other participants who made it to the amply-filled

Tournament organizer Keith Stevenson of Haliburton Highlands Golf Course thanked the participants for an enjoyable afternoon of golf. It was noted that a number of those playing this year have been participating in the tournament for the past 10 years.

Each of the golfers received a digital clock marking the tenth anniversary of the competition.

YOUNG TEAM ON THE RISE

Senior Redmen topple Wildcats

The HHSS Redmen Senior soccer team earned its first win of the season with an impressive 4-0 showing against Lindsay's I.E. Weldon.

Jan Haedicke stunned the opponents in the first few minutes of the game by launching a rocket past the Weldon goalie. This was the first of three goals for Haedicke and coach Walter Tose said it worked to demoralize the Wildcats.

Chris Dair added the second Redmen goal in the first half before Haedicke booted in two more in the second.

Tose said this young team is already showing some improvement. In their first game of the season, the Redmen fell 3-0 to Fenelon Falls. Although Weldon proved to be an easier opponent, Tose said the Redmen played much better than in their first outing. Paddy Taylor, Chris Holliday-Rhodes and Darryl Winder all contributed to Wednesday's win with strong play in the midfield.

The Haliburton squad has a lot of new faces this season, with only four veterans returning from last year's team. With such a young team, Tose said he is aiming for gradual improvement throughout the season.

LCVI is bound to be the team to beat this season, says Tose. They trampled Weldon 7-1 in their first outing. The Redmen will have their shot at Weldon this Wednesday in Haliburton. The game begins at about 4 p.m.

A tangle of legs hides the ball during a senior soccer game Wednesday afternoon at HHSS. The seniors won 4-0 against I.E. Weldon Secondary School of Lindsay. The junior team lost 4-0.

Take the lead in controlled development, county urged

Municipalities should be taking a lead role in determining the sustainable lakeshore development, Haliburton County Council was told Wednesday.

Neil Hutchinson, a scientist with the Ministry of Environment's research centre in Dorset, said Haliburton County's municipalities should have limits determined for development on lakes and have this implemented along with the Official Plan.

By next October, the ministry will have a draft policy on lakeshore development, he said. Soon after that, municipalities will need the information on how much development each lake can accommodate.

Hutchinson attended Wednesday's meeting to provide an update on a number of ongoing environmental issues. He provided information on the progress made in the fight against acid rain, and the effects of development on lakes.

Although acid rain research has been the focus of much of the work at the research centre, Hutchinson said the effects of development on lakes is another important element of the job. He said the ministry is devising a computer program that will soon be available for cottage associations to help them determine how many homes, cottages and resorts each lake can accommodate without significant damage to the environment.

The size and depth of the lake, the soils and vegetation, and the flow of the water are all factors that determine just how much development a lake can withstand. With the new computer program, people could insert this information and find out if their lake is capable of handling any more development.

The limits of development are determined by the lake itself, said Hutchinson. He said it would be to the county's benefit to find out what the limits are on each lake and incorporate that information into the Official Plan. (Haliburton County is in the process of developing a county-wide Official Plan).

At the municipal level the choice has to be made between development and the quality of life for the users, he said. "It's best not to wait for the MOE to do it for you but to do it in your Official Plan."

Minden rejects Rutale's rezoning bid

Minden council has rejected a rezoning application for Mark Rutale's 12-unit condominium proposal on Bobcaygeon Road.

The property Rutale had asked to be rezoned fronts on Bobcaygeon Road between Parkside Cres. and Prentice St. but his project was the target of opposition by neighbouring homeowners.

Resident Gord Samells has been one of the main opponents of the project and he had publicly voiced his objections to both council and the Planning Advisory Committee.

At last Thursday's public meeting, Samells again outlined his reasons for objecting to the condominiums, claiming the development would lower the value of his property, increase noise and traffic in the area and diminish his privacy.

He said existing townhouse development on Parkside Cres. has already affected the value of his home and further high-density housing would have more of an impact.

"Most of us are retired or near retired and our life-savings are tied up in our homes," said Samells. "It's hard to see that eroded when it's out of our control."

Increased use of the arena and fairgrounds and the development of three senior's apartment buildings has "squeezed" residents into their backyards, said Samells. "Now this is being taken away from us.

"It's all contributing to a Cabbagetown environment."

Referring to Rutale's townhouse development, Samells objected to what he referred to as the "known performance" of the developer.

He said the Parkside Cres. development was originally supposed to be a single story apartment building but ended up as 16 three-story townhouses which he said are "unfinished and sit half-empty."

Expressing concern that the 12-unit condo project may evolve into something else, Samells asked, "who's going to protect us, as residents of that area, if the 12 units become 16 or 20 units three-stories high?"

He also attacked the municipality for allowing a township employee to work for Rutale on the project.

Laurie Devolin has been working for the township on a part-time, contract basis conducting building inspections two days a week during the summer. She also has her own company, Designs by Devolin, and prepared the plans for Rutale's condo development.

Samells called the situation a conflict of interest and said having a municipal employee working for Rutale "tipped the scales" in favour of Rutale.

Later, Chief Building Official Tom

The Lifetime Meritorious Service Award is the highest award given in the Legion; it is presented only to people who have made a substantial contribution not only to the Legion but to the their community as well. In Shipley's case, her community work includes senior citizen's housing, blood donor clinics, United Church, skating club, Cancer Society, Brownies and the carnival. Shipley is the first member of Branch 129 ever to receive this award which is given by the Legion's Dominion Command.

Neighbours sense problems with development

Hubercheck told The Times that Devolin's involvement was not a conflict of interest as Samells claimed.

Hubercheck said the township knew Devolin was working for Rutale when she was hired for the summer, but she had no involvement with his projects in her capacity with the municipality.

Because Devolin was only hired to do building inspections and she did not inspect any of Rutale's developments, Hubercheck said she was not in a position where she could influence or affect the municipality's dealings with the developer.

"It's impossible," said Hubercheck. "We were very careful to avoid a conflict of interest."

After Samells finished his representation, Bob Muirhead addressed council and supported Samells concerns. He said there is plenty of vacant land in the township where Rutale's could build his condominiums that wouldn't bother anyone.

The third resident to voice opposition to the development was Dave Ferguson who lives on Bobcaygeon Road across from the Library.

He said he was concerned that developers could come into town and buy property on speculation knowing they could automatically get a rezoning.

"That says rezoning is a foregone conclusion," said Ferguson. "There's problems with the system."

In a strongly-worded attack on council, Ferguson said a developer could buy property in town knowing councillors can be "easily bought, walked over and pushed around" he said councillors "forget who's interests they're elected to protect."

Ferguson's accusation prompted angry reactions from council members when they made their statements later in the meeting.

In an emotional response, Councillor Mike Maher said he took "great exception" to the remark that councillors could be bought.

Reeve Ray Moore also responded to the accusations. "No one on council has been bought," said Moore. "I don't think you could get a more honest council."

After the meeting Ferguson stood and apologized to council for his earlier comments. He said the comments were in poor taste and assured council he hadn't meant what he said.

After listening to the objectors, council adjourned to discuss the issue in private. After the meeting was re-adjourned, each councillor made a brief statement before the vote.

Lewis Stevens said the location is a prime area for development and the rezoning application was in line with the official plan. He said would support the by-law with a "true conscience."

Maher said he shared the residents concerns about the density of the neighbourhood with the seniors apartments and townhouses.

Bob Sisson said given the effect the development could have on neighbouring property values and the the increased density he could not support he application. "I'm here to represent the ratepayers," he said. "I have to vote against it."

Moore said he would have supported the project but, as chairman, would not be voting. Deputy-Reeve Bern Berry was absent from the meeting.

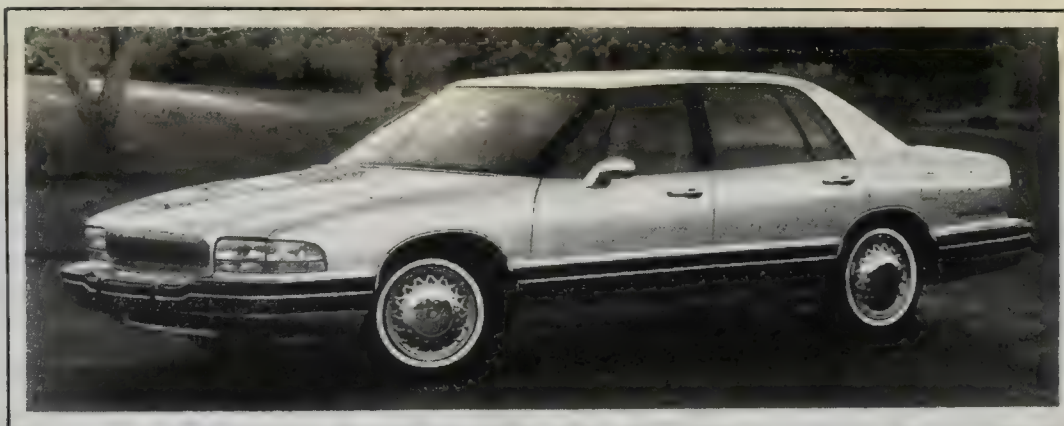

The by-law was defeated with Maher and Sisson voting against it and Stevens voting in favour of it.

After the meeting Rutale said he was not surprised by council decision and that he will be appealing the decision to the Ontario Municipal Board.

Barking dogs don't worry about by-laws

Since barking dogs aren't likely to pay much attention to a fine, Lutterworth Council is hesitant to respond to complaints with an anti-noise by-law.

Council was asked to reconsider the possibility of establishing noise by-law Thursday by a resident who tired of living next door to a noisy kennel.

Council, however, is apprehensive about passing such a by-law, since it wouldn't stop the dogs from barking and would force the by-law enforcement officer to be on call 24 hours a day.

Fred Preston told council the noise from a kennel in his neighbourhood is such a nuisance that he is tempted to sell his cottage. Any disturbance will cause the dogs to start barking, he said, and they don't stop for more than an hour.

Sergeant Doug Bernard, Lutterworth's liaison officer, was in attendance at Thursday's meeting. He told council there is little the police can do when they are called to respond to a noise complaint unless the municipality has a noise by-law in effect.

Even then, he said, Ontario Provincial Police are not allowed to enforce by-laws. However, police can assist the by-law enforcement officer, he said.

Bernardi said the Town of Lindsay has had good success in enforcing its noise by-law. He said officers are often called to respond to noise complaints resulting from college parties. In those cases, a ticket is issued and the noise soon subsides, he said.

Unlike Haliburton County, though,

Lindsay has its own police department which is authorized to enforce municipal by-laws. If Lutterworth chooses to pass a by-law, Bernardi said any charges would have to be laid by the by-law enforcement officer. If the by-law enforcement officer believes there may be any danger, Bernardi said the OPP would be willing to attend the scene along with him.

Although all councillors said they could see some merit to having a noise by-law, some expressed concern about the resulting need to expand the by-law enforcement officer's hours. Since most noisy parties happen at night, the officer would have to be on call at all times.

Councillor Maurice Boyd said he would like to get some up-to-date information about noise control by-laws, "but I can't see putting the by-law officer on call 24 hours."

Deputy Reeve Jim McMahon agreed with Boyd's statement, and also noted that the passage of a by-law could generate a tremendous amount of new work for the officer. "If we enact a noise by-law in the summertime, the phone would be ringing off the hook," he said.

Preston agreed that it is unrealistic to expect the officer to be on call at all times. However, he said a noise by-law might still provide some measure of help. "I sympathise with the enforcement problems," he said, "but I'm up in this area because of the peace and quiet."

Preston said he is not the only one who is upset by the barking dogs and wondered if a petition should be initiated.

McMahon said it would be a better idea for Preston to calmly approach the owner of the dogs and try to come to find a solution to the problem. In the meantime, council will be taking another look at the merits of passing a noise by-law.

Dancers hold workshop

The newly formed Haliburton District Highland Dancing Association offered their first Highland Dance Workshop at Archie Stouffer Elementary School on Saturday, September 15.

Ann Sutherland, a competition dance level judge, was present to instruct the children in a wide range of steps. Sutherland runs her own highly accredited dance school and summer dance camp in the London area.

Workshops such as these are offered to dancers in nearby communities. The Association was pleased to welcome students from Orillia, Omemee and Lindsay. The dancers received a whole day of extensive "one-on-one" training. Sutherland was assisted by Faith Aggett of Minden. Aggett teaches our local dancers, several of whom have competed all over Ontario this past year.

Our new season is just a week old, and anyone wishing more information about lessons or exhibitional dancing can reach Aggett at 286-1831.

Around the County Town

Call The Times, 286-1288

There were 17 members at the September 19 meeting of Minden Women's Institute answering the Roll Call of a Proverb and it's use today or paying a fine. The usual reports were given and Mrs. W. Moore reported sending 40 cards for different occasions since the June meeting. Collections were taken for the Card

Fund and Pennies for Friendship, and some members gave donations. We had a successful bake sale and some members enjoyed Victoria East Craft-Lunch-eon in Fenelon Falls, both in August. The president thanked all the members for carrying on with the June meeting when she was absent and also for helpers at the Bake Sale.

The leaders for the Bread Making Course this Fall are Jean Lacey and Dorothea Lynch. The Flag stand made by Hugh Lester will have a flag hanging from it, thanks to Evelyn Cox and will be at all meetings. A delegate to Area Convention in early Novems will be selected at the next meeting.

Mrs. A Counter, Con-venor of Family and Con-sumer Affairs, gave a paper on the history and value of water, followed by a verse, all very informative.

Next meeting will be October 17 at 2 p.m. at the Lounge of Staunworth Ter-race with a speaker and four resident members in charge and all ladies wel-come. The meeting then adjourned and all visited with each other as they enjoyed the lunch and cup of tea served by the com-mittee.

Jeanne's back

Our faithful readers, like us, were most unhappy when Mary Scott was taken ill and no longer able to write the weekly column "Around the Town". We are happy to report that Mary is coming along very well and is feeling much better.

Another piece of good news is that our old friend

Jeanne Sears has agreed to come back to us after retir-ing for just one year. Jeanne will be collecting the little snippets for Around the Town and may be reached at 286-1538. Our sincere thanks to Mary who hand-led the column so well—please get well soon, our thoughts and prayers are with you.

Kids' Korner

Hi Kids!

Here is another puzzle for you with a word list. Look in the diagram of letters for the words given in the list. Find them by reading up, down, forward, backward and diagonally. They are all in a straight line and do not skip letters.

Circle the words in the dia-gram and cross it off the list.

It's as easy as that. Have fun!

Residents' Council addresses problems

Senior League

by Winnifred Barnum

This week we began with the tea party provided by the United Church Women of Kinmount. They served a delicious lunch and after we had a sing song. The residents thank you for providing us with an enjoyable afternoon.

Thursday evening we had two ladies calling bingo. We were back in the auditorium. I am sorry I didn't get the ladies' names, but I will make amends when they come this Thursday night. We certainly appreciate their coming.

Friday afternoon was happy hour with Connie and Mike Biagi, Bill Geddis, and Lloyd Madill. Connie played a guitar, Mike the mouth-organ, Bill electric piano, Lloyd guitar and Doris piano. The residents and their visitors were well entertained. We sincerely thank them and they were greatly enjoyed. The volunteers for happy hour were Dorothy Milne, Mary Guillemin, Ellen Holden and our gentleman volunteer Don Holden who was celebrating his birthday. We thank the volunteers as well as congratulate Don on his birthday and hope he has many more, Dana Lee also helped. Doris had a weeks vacation that week and Dana who was helping with activities worked her last day on activities. She did a good job. Gladys Bowman had succeeded Dana on Activities.

Saturday my sister Mary, Roy and Jackie took me to Wilda's cottage on Redstone Lake and we had dinner on our way to Hyland Crest.

Sunday evening Chapel service was taken by Rev. John Burgess and Alice Jones was here to play the organ. Leon Jones, Don and Marge Sisson were visitors to the service. Thank you Mr. Burgess and Alice. We all enjoyed the service.

Monday we held Residents' Council. There was a very good attendance and we discussed several problems that needed solving. Just as we finished Residents' Council I was called to the office and when I got there, there was my Aunt Florence Millard nee La Rue, from Dresden, her sister Ada Grozelle and Ada's daughter from Uphill. She came to see me last year and I was away. They were only here for a short time but I was very glad to see them.

Monday evening Dorothy Hunter came and showed us two films "Mysterious White Land" and "The Incredible Cat Tale". They were quite different and we enjoyed them. Thank you Dorothy for your help.

September 15, 1990 was Annie Jones' birthday. She is too ill for having any celebration. We extend to her our sympathy.

Tuesday morning service was conducted by Pastor J. Fast, playing the hymns on his guitar which we appreciate and thank him for.

Our administrator has had a couple of weeks vacation that she certainly earned, but we are happy to have her here again.

We were invited to Evelyn Coleman's home today for tea. When it was time to go it began to rain. She called Doris to say some of the seniors might not want to get wet. She had everything ready, and if we would rather they would bring it all down here if we wished, and we did. We had a delicious lunch all prepared by Evelyn. Evelyn comes here during the winter, and we have bible study. She is a wonderful friend. Her husband Lloyd came with her today and helped Evelyn. We thank them both very much.

Wednesday evening Pastor Murray and his helpers held a service in the main lounge. The residents thank them sincerely.

Region 6 rally "Reaches Out" at Maple Lake United Church

by Olive Rodgers

With the theme "Reaching Out", the Region 6 Rally was held at Maple Lake United Church on September 12, 1990. During registration, quiet music was provided by Kathleen Owen, organist. A "Let's Sing" time, including many old favourite hymns was directed by Doreen Bullied of Carnarvon.

Evelyn Coleman, Chairperson, welcomed everyone to Maple Lake, as did Rev. Ed Moll. The meeting opened with the hymn "God Reveals His Presence". The worship, led by Bette Herlihey and Pat Bradburn of Minden was based on scripture from Luke 10:5-37. Lorna Hicks and Isabelle Saunders of Ingoldsby received and dedicated the offering. Pat Bradburn extended a cordial invitation for the Rally to be held in Minden in 1991. Barb Trocewicz, secretary, read the minutes of the 1989 Rally held at Lochlin and the Roll Call was answered by ladies from the participating U.C.W.'s, who have all done a fine job of "Reaching Out" during the past year.

Ruth Gorrie announced an event taking place October 27, 1990 at St. George's Anglican Church from 8:45 a.m. to 3 p.m. All are welcome to this day, entitled "Making Steady Progress".

The U.C.W. Purpose was repeated in Unison followed by the hymn "Be Thou My Vision". Carol Thompson brought greetings on behalf of Lindsay Presbyterial and introduced the presbyterial officers.

Joyce Jones mentioned that the offices of Programme Leadership and Stewardship are still not filled. The Annual Meeting will be held on March 6, 1991 in Bobcaygeon, Joyce brought regrets from Olive Nye.

Jean Gorrill announced the Mid-Week Event to be held in Warkworth, November 7 & 8 where The Study Kit, "Culture, Media, and the Gospel" will be introduced.

Florence Harrison reported the need for continued M&S support.

Shirley Reesor presented and recommended several books and assured the ladies that there would be a good display at the Lindsay Fair Booth.

Marjorie Morrison read

letters of appreciation from the Canadian Bible Society and Christian Blind International. She also reported that labels from Cambell's Soup are now used to replace equipment damaged by Hurricane Hugo. Marjorie displayed her red arm band signifying Solidarity with Native peoples.

Grace Sisson suggested that acid-free paper be used in record books and all old records should be sent to the Archives.

Pat Burley announced a meeting on October 3 in Fenelon Falls to plan Youth Events.

Mary Winterbottom expressed her deep concern for victims of alcohol-related accidents. She read several clippings of these incidents.

Carol Thompson mentioned that Vina Neal is in fair health and had enjoyed hearing from U.C.W. associates this past summer.

Grace was sung before the ladies enjoyed their "Brown Bag Lunch". With only having to prepare a beverage, all the ladies were enabled to be present at the entire Rally. This new idea was accepted well and all enjoyed the fellowship. The book display was available during the lunch hour.

Evelyn Coleman led the In Memoriam with reading several comforting passages of Scripture, and the poem, "Death is Only a Part of Living". The flowers on the table were placed in memory of those who had passed away during the past year. Vaneita Pickens of Gooderham led in prayer.

Chris Johnson, accompanied by Helen Brown sang a solo.

A workshop on the theme was led by Mildred Hill and Shirley Hill; Diane Jackson and Marilyn Burton; June Devolin and Chris Johnson; Joan Brown and Sheila Popple. In the four groups interesting discussions took place and the leaders were given an opportunity to share the worthwhile thoughts and suggestions that had come from the workshop. One thought that might summarize the theme was, "when you cease to share, you cease to grow".

The chairperson thanked all who had contributed to the success of the day in any way. They hymn "The Church is Wherever" was sang and the printed Benediction concluded the first of the Fall Rallies.

Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce is now taking nominations by members in good standing of members in good standing for the 1990/91 Board of Directors.

Contact Dennis Casey, in writing, c/o P.O. Box 147, Minden, Ontario K0M 2K0 by October 10, 1990 to be included on the ballot. Nominations will also be accepted from the floor.

Misused words can hurt as easily as sticks and stones

Reflections

by David Suzuki

'As kids, we used to chant "Sticks and stones may break my bones, but names can never hurt me." Yet words can be as dangerous as sticks and stones.

We learn to "see" the world through the lenses of our value and belief systems and they in turn are expressed in language. The words we use reflect these cultural assumptions.

Feminists demanded a change in the use of words such as "chairman," "spokesman," "fireman," because the masculinity of the terms implied that women are not expected to occupy such positions. And by deliberately substituting "person" for "man", we are constantly reminded of the inequities built into our society.

Years ago, in a discussion on the environment with former federal cabinet member, Mitchell Sharp, I tried to explain why we have to abandon the belief that steady growth, especially in the economy, must be the primary goal of government and industry.

He exclaimed, "I understand what you're saying, but you're talking about an end to progress."

"Progress" and "growth" have become synonymous. And since we aspire to constant progress in the future, then growth has become our goal and there will never be an end to it.

Nowhere is the use of language more revealing than in the military where jargon is full of male sexual symbolism. Weapons are phallic, both in shape and explosive potential, while military personnel speak of various tactics as "deep penetration," "thrust," "counter penetration," "rapid pursuit" and

"rear penetration" have sexual connotations.

As we readjust to the rapid political changes occurring globally, we ought to get rid of the sexual terms and create a new battle language based on the "war" to save the planet. We're engaged in a global "struggle," a "fight" for survival and we have to "mobilize" people.

The forest industry is replete with words that indicate how its activity is perceived. Primary forests are described as "decadent" or "overmature" as if trees are wasted if they are not cut down. Logging is seen as a practice analogous to farming, from the "harvesting of crops" to the creation of "plantations". Foresters "cull" trees, remove "pest" species and refer to the use of pesticides, herbicides and fertilizers as "silvicultural practice."

Old growth forests that haven't been logged are called "wild" while the second growth after logging becomes a "normal" forest.

The word "management" implies we know what we are doing and can duplicate or even improve on nature.

The sign at a shopping plaza I visited said "No animals allowed" and the crowd swarming the mall obviously didn't feel those words referred to them.

Yet we learn in high school biology courses that humans occupy a position in the web of life next to our nearest relatives, the chimps and gorillas. Like all other mammals, we are warm-blooded vertebrates who have hair and feed our young with milk.

We are undeniably animals as if there is a fundamental demarcation that separates us. The word "animal" itself is a pejorative when used to refer to people and carries with it a connotation of uncontrollability and malevolence.

College students in the '50s referred to someone who would be called a nerd today as a "turkey."

Area teens discover the wonder of Medjedorje, Yugoslavia

Six Minden and Lindsay area teenagers joined more than 5,000 other young people from many countries of the world in a youth rally held in Medjugorje, Yugoslavia, a small rural village located in the remote inland mountains of this country which is struggling to overthrow communist domination.

This particular location was chosen because for the last nine years, since June 25, 1981, it has been reported that the Blessed Virgin Mary has been appearing daily to a group of six young people who live there.

These six Canadians, Jennifer and Robyn LaSalle of Lindsay, Sherry Van-Boxtel of Caesarea, Simon Reid, Larissa and Ryse Gray all of Minden, left Canada on July 31. They spent two days sightseeing in the ancient city of Dubrovnick and cruising on the Adriatic. They they took a three-and-a-half-hour bus trip to Medjugorje to be part of an experience they will always remember.

In Jennifer's words, "Medjugorje is a beautiful place. The presence of God can be felt everywhere. The international youth conference brought thousands of people together. People were healed, touched and changed by their experiences."

Robyn says "Youth 2000 provided encouragement and inspiration to the hearts of our younger generation. I and many others experience the peace and powerful presence of God and our Blessed Mother Mary."

Sherry agreed saying, "I

Humans forget we're animals also

(from page 23)

College women back then referred to male creeps as "lizards." A person who is a "chicken" is a coward, a "snake" is not to be trusted, an "ox" is stupid while a "mule" is stubborn.

A "wolf" is a leering flirt, a "black sheep" is a family disappointment while someone who has been made a "monkey" or is an "ape" is not very bright.

It is the distancing and separation of humankind from the natural world, the sense of superiority to other living beings, that enables us to perpetuate the mistaken notion that we are not subject to the same laws that govern the rest of life on earth. It also seems to legitimate our treatment of wilderness and wildlife — if we are superior beings, then we can dominate the inferior and even try to improve them.

It's not easy to recognize the messages implicit in our words, because the assumptions and attitudes are so deeply embedded in our culture. After a speech in which I mentioned the way we put animals down, someone pointed out that I had accused rich countries of "hogging" too much of the planet's resources. Other animals don't deserve to be downgraded by a species whose name has come to symbolize shortsightedness, destruction and greed.

Pewter show at Rail's End

PewterWorkings, guest curated by Lois Etherington Betteridge, an internationally renowned metalsmith, is an invitational exhibition of pewter holloware and jewellery created by contemporary Canadian pewterers, metalsmiths and jewellers.

Work made of pewter, originating from the 17th, 18th and 19th centuries in Canada are sparsely represented in collections and museums. Pewter's silver-like appearance, inexpensiveness as a metal and its ability to be easily melted and hammered made it a metal for the poor. Consequently, itinerant pewterers cast new pewter spoons from old and melted and reformed broken vessels.

and many others could feel the presence of God working through us and expressed it by hugging, singing and giving personal testimonies of how God had changed our lives."

Perhaps Larissa's thoughts sum up everyone's reactions to this pilgrimage: "Words can barely describe the tremendous feelings that I had at Medjugorje. The youth rally made me realize that there were many others who were searching for the same thing that I was—something to fill that emptiness in my life. Every single person including myself filled that emptiness with great joy, happiness and love for the Lord. I have never felt as much happiness as I did in Medjugorje."

These young people are unanimous in recommending that anyone looking for a place to travel that will be a memorable experience will, in Sherry's words, "surely find it in the beautiful and loving place where the Lord and the Queen of Peace reign in full strength".

Other area residents who also travelled to Medjugorje were Father Bernard Hefernan, Father Bill Maloney, Frances Lynch of Lindsay, Flo and Bill Elliot and John and Kay Stapley of Wilberforce, Bernadette Odette of Peterborough, Kay Gill of Lakefield, Mary Towns of Douro, Toos Reid and Julie Gray of Minden, Rita Lockhart of Irondale and Madeline Pearson of Kinmount.

Rails' End sports Pewter Workings

Perhaps it is for these reasons that so few historic works have endured the Colonial period in Canada.

Contemporary pewter workers in Canada are actively establishing pewtering as a visible craft. The origins of contemporary Canadian pewter works can be traced to Rudy Renzius, who was an accomplished metalsmith when he immigrated to Canada from Sweden in the 1930s. Over the years, Renzius and metalsmiths Andrew Fussell and Harold Stacey took apprentices into their studios, and due to their interest in pewter and the interest of their apprentices such as Douglas Shenstone, that we are now seeing their efforts come to fruition in over twenty practicing pewterers scattered throughout Eastern Canada.

PewterWorkings introduces to the public, the works of Canadian pewterers who tend to be scattered throughout the greater craft scene and who, to Lois Betteridge's knowledge, have never been presented as a distinct group except in the province of New Brunswick. This exhibition will encourage other metalsmiths to explore their ideas in pewter thus helping to establish dialogues between the traditional designer, the contemporary designer and the public.

PewterWorkings is a touring exhibition and will be installed in galleries across Canada during 1990, 1991 and 1992.

An Artists' Reception will be held on September 22 between 7:30 p.m. and 10 p.m. at the Rails' End Gallery. Members of the public are most welcome to attend. For further information please call 705-457-2330.

Cows sing along with Legionnaires

Have you ever heard a cow sing? Well I have, our Decoration Day went well. We marched to the cemetery, all in step, everything going fine, then all of a sudden we had extras, yes you guessed it, the cows all came to the fence to see what was going on. We started to sing and they joined in with their moos. Talk about harmony.

It was great to see our new members in uniform and on parade. Thanks to all who participated.

Good Branch turnout for the church parade in Hali-burton to start off Legion Week, where we were invited back for a lovely lunch.

Comrade Jan Shipley president of the Ladies Auxiliary received the Legion's highest award, the Meritorious Service Medal. Congratulations Jan.

The branch wishes to express our sincere thanks to the Ladies Auxiliary for their generous donation to the branch and for all their support this past year.

Halloween Dance to be held October 27. Admission: $6, if wearing a costume: $5. Time: 8 p.m. Judging will be done by non-Legion members and will take place at 10 p.m. Reminder, our next Trivia Night will be October 24 at 7:30 p.m. Brechin Remembrance Day Parade on October 21 at 1 p.m. Let's have a good turnout. General Meeting October 3 at 7:30 p.m.

Acid Rain Report

The following report on precipitation events was recorded at the Ministry of Environment acid rain testing station in Dorset and compiled by Environment Canada.

This report covers the period of September 9 to September 15.

September 14, 21 mm rain, 4.0 pH, from Pennsylvania and New York.

Environmental damage is usually observed in sensitive areas regularly receiving precipitation with pH less than 4.7. Readings of 4.0 pH or less are considered dangerous. The lower the reading, the more acidic the precipitation.

Water Levels Report

With 54.9 per cent of their range remaining, the Haliburton area reservoir lakes were about 1.5 per cent lower than the 10-year average for September 10, 1990. This was still 6.5 per cent higher than in 1989. Dry weather for most of the past four weeks continues to cause a decline faster than average for the time of year.

In general, the Kawartha Lakes and the rest of the canal route have not needed much reservoir water beyond the minimum flows that must be run from the Gull and Burnt Rivers. Seasonal cooling will be reducing their losses to evaporation soon, even if wetter weather is delayed.

ONTARIO GOVERNMENT NOTICE PROPOSED HIGHWAY REPAIR HIGHWAY 118

The Ministry of Transportation (M.T.O.) has initiated a study to upgrade existing Highway 118 and to repair the deficiencies from 8.0 Km east of Highway 35, easterly for 12.7 Km, under W.P. 62-79-02.

Subject to the final outcome of the study, the Ministry is currently proposing to remove the deficiencies and then resurface the highway. A 2.0 Km length of the road in the vicinity of Haliburton County Road #7 will receive minor realignment.

The study will follow a planning process which has been approved under the Environment Assessment Act, 1975. This approval requires that an Environmental Study Report be filed with the Ministry of the Environment (M.O.E.) prior to construction. Public notification of the availability of this report will be made at the time it is sent to M.O.E. This project may be considered for Reduced Documentation subject to a screening process approved in the Class Environmental Assessment. You are encouraged to contact M.T.O. project staff at any time if you have questions or concerns about this project. If you feel, after consulting with M.T.O. staff, that serious environmental concerns remain unresolved, it is your right to request that the project be subject to the formal Environmental Assessment review and approval process, possibly including a formal public hearing. The decision rests with the Minister of the Environment.

Comments and information regarding this study are being collected to assist the Ministry of Transportation in meeting requirements under the Environmental Assessment Act. They will be maintained as a public data base and will be kept on file for use during the study and, unless otherwise requested, may be included in study documentation which is made available for public review.

We are interested in hearing any comments or concerns you or your group may have about this project. If you wish to be involved in this study or receive further information, please contact us. Any further notification by M.T.O. shall only be provided to those who have expressed an interest in being further involved.

Please send any comments or requests to:

IMPROVING YOUR ODDS

CANADA'S #1 KILLER.

Poodle or pillow, register it before you stuff it

Home-hobbyists who plan to craft dolls and decorations to sell at Christmas markets and church bazaars should call on Ontario's Consumer Ministry before getting started.

Whether shaped like a pooch, pillow or potholder, if items are stuffed or padded, the crafts person must be registered with the ministry's Upholstered and Stuffed Articles Branch.

The branch works to protect the public from unclean or used fillings in articles for sale in Ontario.

"The biggest problem in registering home hobbyists is not that they're unwilling to fill out the form and send away their minimal annual fee," says director Murray Fitzpatrick.

"It's simply that some people still think registration applies only to the big manufacturers."

In fact, a separate registration form and fee schedule were designed specifically for home hobbyists and craft operators in the mid-1970's.

At that time, Fitzpatrick says, boutique-type shops were just becoming fashionable, and country fairs and markets were starting to enjoy a popularity revival. This meant a big jump in the demand for the small decorative items people can make at home.

Flea markets are now springing up or expanding all over Ontario, and the Consumer Ministry hopes shoppers will look for the label before stocking up on those cute Christmas hearth-warmers.

"More than 700 home hobbyists are currently registered with our branch, and the number continues to grow," says Fitzpatrick.

"On their labels, which should be clearly visible when you purchase the item, the three main ingredients of the stuffing and the producer's registration number should appear."

Helping ensure that articles really do contain new, clean material only is the job of branch inspectors, authorized to visit producers' premises at any time.

In addition to inspecting during production, staff take many samples directly from store shelves. If something is amiss, the item will go to the branch laboratory for examination.

At Canada's only government facility for testing stuffed articles in Etobicoke, Ontario, the investigation continues. "If our testing establishes there is a cleanliness problem, it's our responsibility to ensure that the articles are removed from sale," explains Fitzpatrick.

The branch works closely with retailers, who don't want to sell contaminated goods any more than the public wants to buy them.

Why the emphasis on new materials for stuffing, especially in light of the current interest in recycling?

"It's a public-health and safety consideration," Fitzpatrick says. "Although used stuffing may appear to be clean, it can too easily hide germs and insects."

"Materials that have been chemically broken down and fully reconstructed are acceptable, of course. An example would be plastic that is broken down, then re-formed into the pellets used to stuff bean-bag style chairs."

When the first provincial legislation on stuffing was introduced, in the late 1930s, a common nickname for Toronto was "bedbug city". Poor public health standards had resulted from the use of unsanitary stuffings in mattresses and chairs across Ontario.

Consumers can help protect themselves against the recurrence of such an infestation by always looking for the registration tag when they buy.

Taking the time and small fee required for registration—annual charges range from $15 to $75 depending on the number of articles produced—will help home hobbyists ensure they'll get return business from retailers and shoppers alike.

To find out how to register, write the Upholstered and Stuffed Articles Branch, Ministry of Consumer and Commercial Relations, 4th Floor, West Tower, Shipp Centre, 3300 Bloor St. W., Etobicoke Ont., M8X 2X4.

CARD OF THANKS

At times like these it means so much to have such a wonderful family and friends. Your many cards, donations, floral tributes and food was very much appreciated. Also your encouragement and support means so much to us. A sincere thank you to Dr. Steve Dawson and staff, Randy Barras, Jim Young, Rev. Ed Moll and Gord Monk and staff. Your concern and excellent care will always be remembered.

Sincerely,
The Pimm Family

I would like to thank Minden O.P.P. Constable Al Bibby and his partner for their work in the recovery of stolen property. Thanks for your help and kindness.

Sincerely,
Lou Weber

CARD OF THANKS

Elliott Falls Power Corporation has recently completed the redevelopment of the abandoned hydroelectric generating station at Elliott Falls. The corporation would like to thank the residents of Norland for their patience during the construction period. Appreciation is also extended to all those who participated in the project and made it a success.

I would like to thank Dr. Asbell and the staff of Rhodes Medical Centre for the care I received over the summer and also the staff of Minden Hospital for their care while I was hospitalized.

Helen Kelly

IN MEMORIAM

MISCIO, MIKE. In loving memory of a dear father who left us September 25, 1972 and a dear uncle, Carl Miscio, September 23, 1979.

They left us quietly.
Their thoughts unknown,
But left us a memory,
That we are proud to own.
So treasure them Lord,
In your garden of rest.
For when on earth,
They were two of the best.

In my heart you will always be near Papa,
Forever remembered and sadly missed by Nell

MISCIO, MIKE. In loving memory of a dear father who passed away September 25, 1972. Also my dear uncle, Carl Miscio, who passed away September 23, 1979.

Your life was love and labour
For all your family true
You gave your best to all of us
What more can any father do?
We never had a greater gift
Than the years we had with you.

Lovingly remembered by Vera
